Foreword

THE 1941 POT POURRI seeks to continue the trend, begun four years ago, towards modernization and expansion. To this end we have tried to give you a book which deals with the entire undergraduate body rather than exclusively with the Senior Class. If we have succeeded, then there should be something in this book that in future years will bring back memories to all who have known Andover during 1941.

FEW schools are so fortunate in having so many and such good teachers as we have. Though it meant but little to us as Juniors, by the time we became Seniors we fully appreciated them, their abilities, and their unceasing effort to help and understand us.

Junior Year

Rockwell House

WITH enthusiasm slightly tinged with bewilderment, our class entered upon its new life on Andover Hill. Our dreaded nemesis soon became the "Hey, prep," which signified to us manual labor in the service of upperclassmen and which seemed to emanate from all corners of the campus. The first week over, however, and schedule making completed, we settled down into the normal routine of Andover life.

During the fall we saw the football team's win over Exeter in the driving rain; Hal Tine starred for us, scoring three of the touchdowns. To our disappointment, our first victory parade and bonfire were rained out. Jim Ryley's booters also downed the Red and Gray to preserve an undefeated slate for the season. In Junior Athletics, Williams Hall bested Rockwell on the gridiron, but this was reversed in soccer.

In the winter and spring terms we likewise saw victories in the field of sport. Cy Carlson's wrestlers ended an undefeated season with a victory over Exeter. Both the indoor and outdoor track teams were successful against the Red and Gray, while the baseball squad, led by Captain Ted Harrison's three-run homer and great pitching, trounced the Exonians, 3-2.

Entertainments through the year ranged from lectures by Robert Frost and Alan Villiers and a concert by Richard Crooks to the Dramatic Club play, Cock Robin, and a faculty extravaganza written by Mrs. Hallowell that brought down the house. A. Montague Fitzpatrick and the Musty Bowl had both students and faculty groggy. The new Student Council was formed to which Hobe Early and Hank Gardner were elected by us.

Our late spring evenings were spent in cheering the faculty softballers in general and Flop Follansbee, Williams Hall proctor and center fielder extraordinary, in particular, as the teachers spread-eagled the Twilight League. "DiC," speed-ball pitcher and J. A. coach, also won praise from all.

But all things must come to an end, so with only a few of our more daring classmates remaining for Artie Shaw and the Spring Prom, we returned home. Our thoughts were of next year when we would come back not as preps but as "old men." Our first year had been a success and our hopes were high for the future.

RANDOLPH C. HARRISON, JR.

WE returned to school in the fall of 1938 very scornful in our attitude toward anyone in a little blue cap and extremely conscious of our advanced ranking as Lowers. Most of us had graduated from the "the Rock" and "Will Hall," and we eagerly sought to avail ourselves of our newly gained privileges. The strains of Old Man Mose were to be heard coming from all the faculty houses as everyone came back with a victrola, hitherto banned by our first-year guardians. We soon settled down, however, to the work that lay before us.

We had not been back a week when the school was struck by the full force of the now-famous New England hurricane. No casualties resulted, but many fine, old trees, including those of the Elm Arch, were toppled over by the terrific wind. Those of us who were on town power went without lights for almost a week. Sports that fall were very successful. The football team with Captain Townson and Maurie Gould trounced a favored Exeter eleven, 14-6, while Jim Ryley's soccer team preserved its remarkable record over the Red and Gray beating them, 2-1.

We were all saddened on our return to school by the death of Dr. Moorehead. By this time the class had become a bit segregated with the more cultural banding together as the Abbot Angels and the mature group collecting in the basement of Eaton Cottage. The basketball team defeated a highly rated Exeter quintet, and once more the grappling team came out on top. Track was lost to Exeter for the first time in nine years.

The Spring Term got under way as the Dramatic Club, after much delay, presented Ceiling Zero in a more than passable way. The memorable wail of Kali marked the latter part of the term when the school turned out en masse one evening at nine-thirty to raise its voice in praise of the great God of Blood. Dr. Page's death was a sad note in the festivities of the spring. His long career at Andover had brought him thousands of friends who were all affected by his passing. In sports, the Blue track team once again conquered Exeter, as Maurie Gould broadjumped to a new record. The baseball team suffered an upset at the hands of the Redmen.

Some few of us remained for the prom and boards, but most of us left as soon as we could. We knew we would be important Uppers when we again returned.

JAMES R. DICKEN

Lower Year

Eaton Cottage

Upper Year

Johnson Hall

WITH our return to the hill, we found ourselves entering a new life—the atmosphere of large dormitories, the Commons room, the long-awaited smoking privileges, and the knowledge we were upper-classmen. We looked forward to the coming year with eager curiosity.

In spite of bad preps having to perform on the G. W. stage, two weeks saw prep rules things of the past. We settled down to the familiar routine of a long fall term punctuated only by the successful games of the football team. The week preceding the Exeter game saw school spirit at a new high. Songs and cheers went with every meal. Nor were we very disappointed that we lost after the show the team put on. We were privileged to be amused by Cornelia Otis Skinner, while we were amazed by Dr. Judd's talk.

The winter boasted little more than snow and a sinking thermometer. Only the natators escaped the Red and Gray blitzkrieg. The rest, well—only wrestling and track were even close. For entertainment Tommy Reynolds at the Prom, and Jussi Bjoerling and the Don Cossack Choir kept us busy. The blizzard of the closing week ushered out a disheartened group of students.

The first weeks of the spring term found winter still about us, but with the warm weather spring sports began in grand style. But the success of the teams was short lived, for after the Exeter contests only the baseball and tennis teams could hold up their heads. Racqueteer Al Everts was indeed the outstanding attraction in P. A. athletic circles. A major change in school was the reorganization of the Commons Room under the much needed supervision of Jim Ryley. Discussions on the steps of Johnson Hall about the war were illuminated by Messrs. James and Allis after the exhilarating effects of a softball game or a little study.

The spring prom was the perfect end of a successful year. The musical Clubs completed an unusually full year with concerts with Bradford, Rogers Hall, Abbot, and Walnut Hill. Norman Thomas was very well received by all in the best and last of the Friday evening lectures. The dreaded College Board's came and went, and we departed knowing that next year we would be Seniors. The last papers had told of increased activity at the Maginot line. No one dreamed what was to come.

HOBART E. EARLY

Senior Year

Day Hall

WHEN we came back to the hill last fall, we were seniors entering our last year at Andover. No one could tell what the future had in store for us, but we were soon to find out. Being seniors proved better than we had hoped; we could smoke and loll on the Senior Fence and we were allowed to take three week ends, though we were to find that somewhat difficult. For the first few days we had the preps working overtime, and we were glad that the C.I.O. was not yet on the campus. Prepping went on in earnest for a short time and then died away as studies and athletics began to absorb our attentions. There were no preps to act on the G.W. stage, however, as there had been the year before. The big preps were not cooperative for long although one did see Frank Hall and Punchy Pyle working every now and then.

If any of us returned with the idea that classes would be easier this year, we were quickly disillusioned, for we soon found it necessary to take notes diligently in American History to pass the weekly as well as monthly tests.

The football season started off with many injuries, but it was soon apparent that the Blue team had in Jack Fisher one of the best football captains the school has ever had. Although the team itself was not an outstanding one, it had plenty of fight and spirit. The afternoon before the Exeter game there was a bun fight in the Commons. Exeter again came down with a strong team and managed to win, 20-2, but the Sorota-men gave good account of themselves, and the Red and Gray knew they had been in a scrap. The Blue soccer men were beaten by the rivals from New Hampshire for the second time in the history of the school. Kirsten Thorberg amazed us all in the first school concert by singing songs in English, French, and Swedish. The exam schedule was put off a day; and, after three days of exams, we went home, tired from the work of the long fall term.

When we returned from a not too restful vacation, we found the ground covered with snow and the days short and cold. We had not been back long before measles and flu reared their ugly heads. Rockwell was turned into a second infirmary while all its residents were moved to Peabody

House. A few of us were compelled to have injections in a tender part of the anatomy, and for a while we hobbled about quite pitifully. The school was quarantined; all movies, the prom, and week ends were called off, much to the disappointment of everyone. Mischa Elman and Grant Wood furnished the outstanding Friday night entertainments. The athletic teams avenged what had happened in the fall. Swimming had an undefeated season, and we won track, hockey, and fencing from Exeter, losing basketball, by a very slim margin, and wrestling. Exams were on us again, but it was not long before they were over. We left school hoping to find better health at home than we had had for the past term here and realizing that we might soon be in the war.

Returning from a grueling vacation, we found to our delight that summer weather had already arrived. With the warm weather the athletic teams got off to an early start. The Baseball Team, under the able leadership of Don Boynton, had a fair season, and as this goes to press we wish them the same success the track team had against Exeter. Led by record-breakers Harvey Kelsey and Jack Fisher, outstanding in the dashes and weights, the tracksters overcame all comers but the Yale Frosh. The Lacrosse Team fared remarkably well considering the inexperience of the squad. In the gentlemanly sports of Tennis and Golf we did admirably and should do well against the Red and Gray.

To round out a successful social season, the Junior Prom Committee, with Jim Orr as Chairman, made plans for the only Prom of the year, and the student council held the last of the ever successful tea-dances. The Glee Club crooned its way to fortune with the glamorous visitors from Bradford and other points west, while the school once again heard Norman Thomas talk on the subject, "America Has a Future."

The war was brought a bit closer to home in the spring as one past Andover student was killed while training for the air corps, and as two undergraduates left to join the Canadian forces. As this is being written the British are fighting hard for Crete and have just sunk the Bismarck. In the winter term Mr. Allen left to join the army. This spring Mr. Hallowell left to be an Ensign in the navy, and some of the other masters will be leaving after graduation.

As graduation reared its doubtful head, the Barrows' Raiders started their crusade of the Rocking R with the result that dime-shine was selling at a premium. Too, anyone who walked across the West Quadrangle at night was apt to be annoyed. With a feeling of sorrow we anticipate our departure from the Hill, realizing as we look back over the past years, that we have gained something that can never be paid back.

ACTIVITIES at Andover play an important part. They furnish an outlet for energies not consumed in work, offer experience in managing affairs, and provide for the entertainment of all. Both masters and students are now again using the facilities provided for the activities.

Spring Term	D. O. GREEN

CARRYING on its tradition of closer cooperation between undergraduates and faculty, the 1941 Student Council continued the work of previous Councils and instituted several reforms. Taking up first of all the age-old question of the "Beanery," the Council elected a committee to aid the new "Beanery" management in the selection of food popular with the students. Advice from this group was received enthusiastically by Mr. Gould, and improved meals resulted.

The preservation of order in the movies was another function of the Council. Aided by the P. A. Police, Council patrols through the aisles proved very effective.

In the social field the Council held several unusually popular tea dances. Two in the fall term, one in the winter, and one in the spring were surprisingly well attended which made it possible for a good orchestra to be hired for each one.

Another duty which was admirably performed by the Council was the holding of all school elections. Appointing the Class Day committee itself, it also supervised the choice of class officers and Prom committees.

Other accomplishments of the Council were the bolstering of school spirit, the backing of worthy enterprises, such as the collection for a British ambulance, and the taking over of several Saturday morning assemblies.

Taken as a whole, the year proved extremely successful and helped to vindicate once again the idea of government by all classes.

THE choir this year was as excellent as ever. Enthusiasm from its directors, from its members, and from its audiences proved this conclusively, and this enthusiasm and resulting success account in part for its popularity as a extracurricular activity. For it is indisputable that the choir enjoys great popularity among the student body...which is due perhaps chiefly to the concert schedule that it has to offer.

At the end of the fall term, the group travelled to Rogers Hall, a trip that is eagerly looked forward to each year. There was a dinner dance following the annual concert. Owing to the prevailing epidemic of flu, the scheduled return dance with this school was postponed and later canceled. For the same reason the joint concert with the Fidelio Society of Abbot Academy had also to be canceled. The second term saw only one concert; travelling farther than it probably ever had before, the club sang with the girls of the Waynflete School Glee Club at Portland, Maine.

Practically speaking, one concert followed another in the spring term. For the first time in many years, the club sang and danced at Dana Hall in Wellesley. The club also appeared at Walnut Hill School and Beaver Country Day School and played host to the Glee Club of Bradford Junior College in which, as usual, things were somewhat reversed; the girls outnumbered the boys about two to one.

Outside schools were not the only ones favored by the Glee Club's singing. Andover itself was privileged to hear specially prepared work on more than one occasion. At the Christmas vesper service the choir played an important part and added much to the effectiveness of the occasion. The club also sang at Baccalaureate, as it has customarily done for the past few years.

One particular hindrance which affected the group was the shortage of soloists, but a varied repertoire did much to overcome this. In collaboration with the piano team of Coffin and Ames, the club sang Bach's My Spirit Be Joyful to near perfection. Especially stirring was its rendition of Honor and Arms by Handel, and no audience failed to catch its enthusiasm and obvious enjoyment when it sang "The Chorus of Peers" from Gilbert and Sullivan's Iolanthe. With the Waynflete Club the group sang "Spring" from Haydn's oratorio The Seasons and with the Bradford Glee Club it sang Forward Ye People by Grieg.

All those to whom the club has brought pleasure and each member of the club deeply appreciate the time and patience that Dr. Pfatteicher and his assistant Mr. Clark have spent in turning a group of inexperienced warblers into a polished unit of musicians.

Band Leader

E. A. LINCOLN, JR.

THIS year Dr. Pfatteicher gave over his baton to Dr. Reese, who achieved more than passable results with the orchestra. Under the new director the repertoire was developed to include the F Major Symphony of Dittersdorf, a minuet by Handel, and Grétry's overture from Céphale et Procris. A smaller section of the group accompanied Bill Coffin's playing of Bach's Sinfonia.

As is customarily the case, the orchestra accompanied the Glee Club to its concerts, usually playing alone, although on one occasion it was privileged to combine with another orchestra.

Balance among the instrument sections was especially good, even though too many brasses gave Dr. Reese the problem of producing music that did not sound martial. Ten violins, four clarinets, flutes, cellos, trombones, a French horn, four trumpets, a saxophone, and percussion all did their part in producing the final excellent results. A few faculty members played with the orchestra, supplying instruments without which the group would be at a disadvantage.

The band, also under a new advisor, made rapid strides in its year's progress. Mr. King organized a trombone class which helped to increase the size of the band and which also played by itself as a brass choir. Director Ernest Lincoln successfully headed the band as before and produced a praiseworthy outfit which added much to the school athletic contests and rallies. The repertoire included the ever-popular marches and college songs; the high light was the band's rendition of the Woodpecker Song, which had the crowds sitting up and taking notice.

Riveters

Leaders

E. A. LINCOLN, JR.

THE Riveters, Andover's own swing band, has this year reached heights hitherto unknown in its history. With only Sulis on the clarinet, Grover on the drums, Lincoln with his clarinet, and Rogers on the bass, back again from last year, there were many vacated positions, but these have been ably filled by a host of new material. Tal Malcolm and Bill Stiles were outstanding on the piano and sax respectively. Ben Hammer, Bob Noble, Bob Crooks, Bud Thurber, Frannie Hall, Rock King, and Henry Reinheimer were all as good in their particular positions as the band has seen since its start.

Under the able leadership of Ralph Sulis and Ernie Lincoln, the Riveters have come a long ways towards being a smoothly operating unit. The brass section has always been weak and caused some trouble, but a marked improvement over last year's trumpet and trombone aggregation can easily be seen. Making up for any possible defects among the brasses, the sax and rhythm sections are both notably strong. The saxes were the ones that bore the brunt of carrying the melody, a job for which they deserve the utmost praise. The rhythm section maintained a strong supporting beat with Stu Grover as its forte. Too, it will be quite a while before many forget Ralph Sulis and that clarinet of his with which he stole the show.

Supplementing the regular band was the Riveter Sextet, an innovation of just this year. This potent little group, comprised of Sam Rogers, Ralph Sulis, Bill Stiles, Tal Malcolm, Stu Grover, and Noble, has been a constant source of enjoyment to the student body. They were so well received that their future seems certain.

The Riveters have played frequently for the students before the movies on Saturday nights and always got a riotous welcome. They also played for one of the Glee Club dances which was a huge success.

The members of the band say that their only object is to have fun playing. That they accomplish their aim is evidenced by their statement, "When us fellows have a jam session, the place really jumps."

8-in-1 Octet

"...just to pass the time away..."

MR. ADRIANCE

MR. CLARK

Faculty Advisors

FROM year to year, there have always been a number of shower-room harmony masters at Andover. Last year some of them got together one night; and, after a brief sing-session, they decided that they were keeping a budding source of musical culture from the world. As a result, they organized an octet; and with the inspiration and aid of several Whiffinpoofs, Mr. Allen, Mr. Adriance, and Mr. Clark, they burst into song one night.

They met on Sunday evenings and made several public appearances before the movies, at the Proms, and at Commencement. Too, they often gave informal performances on the Senior Fence in the evenings before eight. And, although none of them were potential opera stars, all who heard them declared them to be of superior talent. The octet was so well received that, when the fall of 1940 rolled around, their faculty guardians felt an empty place in Andover life. The gap soon was filled, however, as another eight was gathered into a Sunday night session.

This time the soon enthusiastic group was to include Buzz Coxe, Bob White, Scotty Royce, Hobe Early, Ted Stilwell, Bill Bacon, Windy Winburn, and Gene Dines. Later in the year Gene retired, and Hank Gardner very ably took over the empty position. Together these boys have had a marvelous time, whether singing seriously, off key, or just laughing at each other.

At the beginning of the winter term, the octet lost one of its most valuable friends and coaches when Mr. Allen left school to volunteer for the army. Since then the other two coaches have had the somewhat pleasant job of doing double duty. The results were, none the less, good.

During the year a rather definite policy has been formed by mutual consent. The name of the organization is to go down in history as The 8-in-1 Octet, signifying the perfect harmony in spirit and in song of the group. The aim of the octet is to have fun—and to entertain the school, on occasion. If the group is not too hard on the ears of its audiences, it will sing several Saturday nights of the movies, at the Proms, and possibly at the Step-singing at Commencement. The octet will be composed of Seniors; and each spring, around the end of May, eight returning Uppers will be invited to join in the last sessions of singing, and they will carry on in the following school year. The theme song of the 8-in-1 is a stirring ballad by Handel, Brothers in Song.

This year the group was somewhat hampered by the illness that prevailed at school during the winter, and by the retiring of some of its members. But with the lasting aid and assurances of such genial friends as Mr. Allen and Mr. Adriance, The 8-in-1 Octet looks forward to a future of hope and success, as it takes its place among the many activities at Andover.

Dramatic Club

Not too thick

President SIDNEY R. OVERALL, JR.
Vice-President R. M. HOLSTEN, JR.
Business Manager SPENCER FLOURNOY

PROBABLY never before in the Dramatic Club's history has there been given a more uproariously funny play than this year's Room Service by John Murray and Allen Boretz. Early in the winter term under Mr. Cochran's direction and President Sid Overall's leadership, dramatic aspirants were gathered and tryouts given. After the ravages of the Faculty Approval Committee and the measles were conquered, the cast was chosen and began to take shape.

Room Service is an amusing satire upon the eccentricities of directors and producers on Broadway. It concerns the difficulties of a certain very broke producer (Tom Nicholson) trying to get Godspeed, the play of a very naive country lad (Bill Moorhead), onto the stage. Because of lack of finances the producer, aided by his director (Bill Lanborn) and his tough assistant (Bob Hall) chisel two hotel men (Sid Overall and Jim Orr) by feigning insanity and sickness, which both fail to fool the hotel doctor (Ted Ross), and by climaxing this by a phony suicide act. Finally a nervous old businessman in the person of Dave Trailor agrees to back the play until he is frightened away by the bombastic rages of Jim Orr. A Russian waiter (Arnold Shapiro) with acting ambitions is seduced into bringing a meal to the hungry artists on the promise of a part in the play. Although their pretense is almost discovered by a persistent bill-collector (Tom Sullivan), quick thinking and acting keeps the producer and his group in the hotel. When a bank messenger (Pat Wolf) reveals the fraud and the hotel men are about to send for the sheriffs, the owner of the hotel (Tom Caldwell) shows up to say that he likes the play, thus bringing Room Service to a happy ending, since the feminine leads, played by Pete Poor and Don Burns, finally marry their lovers, Bill Moorhead and Tom Nicholson.

Especially noteworthy in the production was the setting handled by Mr. Hallowell and George Dexter, who have, for the past few years, turned out splendid sets. The Property Management, in the hands of Holsten and Moxley, had the difficult job of supplying mooseheads, stuffed owls, bunches of bananas, and a floral wreath. However, his department deserves a great deal of credit for the excellent job which they did despite handicaps, as does the business department, under Spence Flournoy, which so successfully sold tickets, had programs printed, and had the God-speed placards made and later distributed to members of the cast.

The success with which this year's production was received augurs well for the future of the Dramatic Club. With this sort of encouragement it is possible that next year the Dramatic Club may increase its contribution to the list of amusements at Andover by giving several short plays in addition to the regular production.

Phillipian

FINDING itself, since Donald Marshman had left school, without an Editor-in-Chief, the Phillipian elected James R. Dicken to fill this position and thus began the year. A new policy of distributing the work more evenly among the several board members was inaugurated, and a publication of more interest and variation was the result. Hampered at the start by inexperience, the new board soon overcame its early difficulties and began putting out issues of which any board could have been proud. Following last year's trend, larger numbers of heelers entered the competitions for board positions, thus easing immeasurably the burden of publication.

Although some attention was directed toward international affairs, editorials, some in praise others in criticisms, were devoted largely to school doings. Enthusiastic support was given to the Friends of Hockey at Andover in their efforts to improve hockey facilities. Student and faculty contributions in the form of communications were solicited frequently; interviews with campus personalities were sought for; downtown merchants were urged to tell their stories—all was in the attempt to produce a truly representative paper.

News-gathering was of necessity limited to the campus, with sports articles drawing the feature positions. Undergraduate activities, such as Philo and the various clubs, were boosted. Cut-off lines between columns and by-lines on all but special articles were eliminated at subscribers' suggestions.

Old columns, such as This Andover, popular favorite in a poll held last year, remained while new ones were added. The Merry-Go-Round, a digest of insignificant but interesting affairs in school life, was noteworthy among the newcomers this spring. Dirt on the Discs kept its high place and was later augmented by the Spotlight, which did for new plays what the former did for new recordings.

During the spring, three important and progressive changes were made. The Andover Press Association, a group of Phillipian board members dedicated to collecting and sending out Andover news to city papers, was formed; an Advisory Board, consisting of retiring Seniors, was created; and four new offices for Seniors—Alumni, Sports, and Campus Editors and Advertising Manager—were sanctioned by the faculty and filled by the board.

By the business department, handled ably by Randolph C. Harrison, Jr., subscription totals were raised above those of previous years, and a goodly number of local and national advertisements were secured. Fortunately for the Phillipian the war caused little decrease in the advertisements received.

To end their activities, the Seniors elected Norman W. Barrett, Editor-in-Chief for next year and Peter C. Welch, Business Manager at the annual banquet at the Andover Inn. In conclusion, the retiring Seniors heartily thank Smith & Coutts, printers of the Phillipian, for their splendid cooperation and effort during the year.

Pot Pourri

FOUR years ago, Andover was pleasantly surprised by the appearance of a new kind of annual. Gone was the old cover, the old setup, and in their stead was a bright blue cover with something new inside. We of the Class of '41 have never bought one of the old books, but we all know what a complete change the POT POURRI has undergone in the last four years.

Two years ago, the editors of the POT POURRI thought they had found the ultimate as far as layout went. They were mistaken, however, for the 1940 POT POURRI had many changes embodied in it. We have benefited from the mistakes and experience of former editors and have tried to continue the trend to a book that deals with more than just the Seniors and their doings.

There have been several changes in this year's book. The two-column pages have been kept as has been the new arrangement of the Faculty Section. Again the cover has been changed, but this time more radically than in recent years. The type of the division pages is something new and modern, while that of the headings of the pages has also been revised. Expansion has been carried forward to include as many of the extracurricular activities as possible. The layout of the Senior Section has reverted to the old form for no other reason but the great addition to the final cost of last year's book. A slight change has been made, however, in that the pictures are bigger than they used to be. For part of our feature section we had an opportunity that may never knock again. We bought some pictures from Life magazine and have tried to set them up as they might have done. We realize that it is not very representative of the whole year, but an Andover-Exeter football game is something that will be remembered by all for many years after it occurs.

Early in the spring term something new was tried. A contest was run to obtain pictures for the latter part of the feature section. There has been and will always be a cry for more pictures, and it is for this reason that the latter part of the feature section is as it is. Even the athletic section has been changed to meet this demand. But despite these changes, the cost of more cuts will ever remain prohibitive.

As for the picture of Burma we believe it will help bring back memories of the Boston Herald funnies and the hours spent studying them. In short, we have tried to continue the policy of modernization and expansion that has characterized these books for the last four years. We realize, however, that the final goal has not been reached, that there is much room for improvement.

In closing, the officers and members of all boards wish to express their thanks to Mr. Allis, Mr. Hopper, and Mr. Hayes, of the faculty, for their aid, cooperation, and interest; to Mr. Johnson, of the Andover Press, for his patience and effort that always make the POT POURRI a better book; and to the student body for their cooperation that each year has, and always will, make possible this book. We hope you enjoy it in years to come.

Mirror

THE Mirror, this year, turned over something of a new leaf. To compensate for the natural drop in literary standard, since the magazine was entrusted almost entirely to Uppers, many new features were instituted during the year. The most successful of these was the Mirror Survey. The initial one, which dealt with undergraduate views of the war, proved interesting enough to be subsequently printed in other school publications and in certain newspapers.

While this was the most popular of the new features, a number of others, such as a sports preview of the athletic teams for the next term and exchange articles from schools in foreign countries, were very well received. Thus new features were the beginning of a very definite trend in the Mirror's policy towards a more non-fictional magazine with more articles dealing specifically with the school.

But the literary aspect was far from neglected, and as the year progressed more and more undergraduate contributions poured in on the editors. The Seniors responded more in quality than in quantity, while the Uppers came through with a little of both. Al Cook and Dave Brown won Dr. Fuess' generous award of ten dollars for the best articles in the Fall and Winter issues. Bill Curtis, Spence Flournoy, and Frank Slack were the most consistent contributors from the Seniors, while Dave Chavchavadze, How Weaver, and Fred Sontag were the most enthusiastic of the Uppers.

Too, this year the Art Board was expanded and given greater space in the different issues. The results of the second poll showed that the students thought that more cartoons and pictures were what the Mirror needed. So with this in mind, art editor Max Mayo and his two able assistants, Sam Rogers and Joe Park, were given the signal to do their best to liven up the magazine. Joe Park won the award for the best cover design for the first two terms. His second effort was so good that it has been adopted as semi-permanent.

The Business Board, under George Warren, worked hard and diligently to give the editors room to expand. They were always ready and willing to cooperate in instituting any new idea. George also doubled as exchange editor, and proved most efficient there also. In this position he obtained a very interesting article which dealt with the changes the war has made on life in Canada.

Although this year's issues may not have been the tops in literary value, they were, however, a step in the right direction. With this period of transition safely behind it, the Mirror can look to a bright future. Despite probable changes in leadership, practically all the boards will return intact next year, as Max Mayo and Al Cook and Frank Slack are the only ones of import to leave.

Backed by an enthusiastic group of Uppers, Lowers, and Juniors headed by Craig Gilbert, Bill Lippman, and Harry Phillips, there is no telling to what heights this noble publication may rise in the next few years.

EARLY in the fall term of this year, the Philomathean Debating Society opened its books for the 126th consecutive year. In the first part of October, Dr. Fuess spoke to the student body in morning assembly on the traditions and functions of Philo. As a result of this address and the following membership campaign, eighty undergraduates enrolled in the Society, one of the largest numbers in Philo's history.

As soon as the two-man teams were arranged, activity started with the qualifying round for the annual tournament. The Society held two debates each week throughout the fall term, and at the end the sixteen qualifying teams were announced. Four outstanding teams, Neilson and Weren, Shove and Colley, Moorhead and Overall, Waters and Spengler, were ceded positions in the tournament which began the first week after the Christmas vacation.

In order to make the contests more vigorous and to facilitate judging, some revisions were made in the debate procedure before the tournament got under way. The new method, a modification of the Oregon system, called for a seven-minute constructive argument and a five-minute rebuttal on each side, with an optional questioning period following each constructive speech.

Among the more interesting questions discussed were "Resolved: That the United States is responsible for the failure of the League of Nations"; "Resolved: That Andover should institute military training for the upper two classes"; "Resolved: That in peacetime government should let business solve its own problems"; and "Resolved: That the United States should have a uniform divorce law."

The rhetorical battle for the headmaster's prize is being fought now as we go to press, and, because of the extremely fine quality of the speaking, the outcome is still very much in doubt, though it will probably be one of the ceded teams that wins the much-coveted Philo prize.

The society contained some fine debaters this year. All the debates were of the utmost interest to all that came. And it was from the lists of Philo that the Varsity Debating Team got many of its members.

Philo felt a real loss at the beginning of the winter term when its president, William Macdonald, left school. At that time, in order to fill the vacancy, a new election of officers was held, and those named at the top served during the winter and spring.

The Society is emphatically grateful to Mr. Brown, its faculty advisor, who served as critic judge throughout the entire tournament and to Otis Erisman, the varsity debate manager, for his help in conducting the tournament.

Debate Manager

O. W. ERISMAN

FOR the first time under the guidance of Dr. Paul MacKendrick, Andover's Varsity Debating teams embarked upon a series of stormy contests. Highlighted by numerous trips through New England, the season began in December and ran well into May. Eleven debates were scheduled, two of which were cancelled during the winter term. Otis Erisman, Debate Manager, handled arrangements for the teams, and the affiliation established last year with the Philomathean Society was maintained with Coach MacKendrick drawing on that group for debaters when emergencies arose.

As is generally the custom, the first debate was held at Andover with Middlesex Academy in December. Although three debates were scheduled for the winter term, two of the schools with which Andover was to debate, asked for cancellation on account of sickness. The remaining debate was held in Concord, N. H., with St. Paul's School. Activity was greatest during the spring term when debates were held with Exeter, Deerfield, Groton High School, Harvard Frosh, and Lawrence High School. The Lawrence debate was held over the radio and provoked a great deal of undergraduate interest.

Subjects for the season generally centered around the war, government, national defense, and world conditions in general. The subject for the away and home debates with Exeter was, "Resolved: That The United States should openly avow a state of war with Germany now." Andover was unsuccessful both at home and at Exeter in these debates. A most idealistic subject was debated with St. Paul's School, "Resolved: That world conditions today should stimulate rather than discourage American youth." The National Forensic Topic, "Resolved: That the powers of the Federal government should be increased," was debated on two occasions. Other questions included a post-war league of nations and the outlawing of defense strikes.

The regular varsity team, chosen at the beginning of the season, was composed of William Spengler, the only veteran from last year's varsity, Allen Colley, Robert Neilson, and Tom Caldwell. Other teams included outstanding debaters from the Philomathean Society including Robert Waters, Pell Foster, Gordon Heiner, Dave Chavchavadze, Albert Stone, Harry Phillips, and Winstanley Briggs.

Coach MacKendrick deserves a great deal of credit for his untiring efforts and Manager Erisman is also to be congratulated for his efficient management of the team that lost so many close decisions.

Society of Inquiry

President	H. E. EARLY
Vice-President	E. H. WEREN
Secretary	D. O. GREEN
Treasurer	J. B. MILLER, II

THE Society of Inquiry is one of Phillips Academy's honored traditions. The main interest of this group is to "stimulate high idealism and qualities" at Andover, but the "S. of I." also sponsors prominent social, religious, and political speakers; various out-of-town trips to conferences and meetings; and it runs the great annual charities drive.

The Society of Inquiry began the year 1940-41 on September 15, when it held an afternoon "prep reception" at the Andover Inn. Here the new boys met Dr. and Mrs. Fuess and had a chance to become acquainted with each other. That same evening the society held a mass meeting of the preps in George Washington Hall. The heads of various school organizations made speeches, and the traditions and customs of the school were explained to the new boys. On November 8 the society undertook one of its hardest tasks of the year—the charities drive. This is the task of raising money from the student body for a budget used for the support of such organizations as the Grenfell Labrador Mission, the Red Cross, The Andover Guild, and other worthy causes. The drive this year was extraordinarily successful. The school far surpassed the goal set at the beginning of the drive, the Uppers being the most generous givers. Early in December the society sent fourteen delegates to the Northfield Religious Conference at East Northfield, Mass. This conference, attended by various prep school delegates, lasted for three days. Andover, St. Paul's, St. George's, Hotchkiss, and other schools were represented. The boys had a chance to hear eminent speakers and to express their own opinions in informal group discussions.

Because of the many restrictions resulting from sickness, most of the S. of I.'s plans for the winter term had to be cancelled, and so the school missed several famous speakers. There were, however, two luncheons at the Log Cabin, at one of which the society entertained Mr. Erdman Harris on February 9, and at the other, Mr. Arthur Lee Kinsolving on February 16. On March 2 the society again resumed its work with a trip to Exeter. Here the boys attended a very interesting meeting with the members of the Christian Fraternity. During the spring the Society sponsored many lectures, and the school again heard Norman Thomas, noted socialist. The society also sponsored Dr. T. Z. Koo who spoke of his experiences in China, and Mr. Kneller, recently returned from Germany, who discussed the German philosophy of government, National Socialism.

The Society of Inquiry as a whole wishes to thank its supervisor, Mr. Baldwin, for his kind leadership and able guidance all through this year.

DURING the past year as many organizations sprang into being in school to provide help for the British and for the other embattled nations, Circle A maintained its regular program, doing things it was counted on to do.

In the first large book drive, conducted in somewhat the same fashion as the clothes drives, 2500 books were collected for Mr. Kelley's Loan Library. During the fall and spring terms, a number of trips were made with boys from the poorer sections of Lawrence. They were taken around the school, to athletic contests, and then to the Log Cabin for the evening or to the movies. In the fall term, before Christmas, a new idea was tried with considerable success. Co-operating with Mr. Tower of the Woodworking Club, members of Circle A repaired and made new a large number of toys that were later to be distributed in Andover. Children of the faculty helped to collect these secondhand toys among the boys and girls of Puchard. Although the project was on a rather small scale, it was, none the less, successful and interesting in that it is an idea that can be more fully developed in the years to come. Work at the Andover Guild was quite regular this year, even though, because of the great amount of sickness both at school and at the Guild, work during the winter was somewhat hampered. During the fall term, a very interesting trip was made to the Charlestown State Prison in Boston. The trip proved both interesting and educational; and once again it is hoped that future years will see more of this sort of activity. At the end of each term, the regular old-clothes drives were held, the school being as always very generous in its donations. These clothes were doubly useful at home this winter in a year in which many charitable organizations forgot pressing local needs as they turned to the aid of the British. Too, as in years gone by, Circle A sponsored the successful sale of Christmas seals.

Membership in Circle A is a very informal affair. If a boy shows sustained interest throughout the year, he is taken in as a member at a rather informal meeting held at the Log Cabin sometime around Easter. But on the whole, members do the work because they want to, not because they are members of the organization. There are no rules, whatsoever, of compulsion.

At the meeting held at the usual place, the Log Cabin, on April the twenty-fourth, eighteen new members were inducted, and Edward Foord, Burke Shay, and Philip Drake were elected to succeed Donald Wilson, Robert Jackson, and George Rockwell as President, Vice-President, and Treasurer, respectively. Thanks are gratefully given to Mr. Baldwin for the kindness and effort he gave so that the year might be a success.

AT one of the first meetings of the Outing Club, comprising some sixty-five members, Doug Milne was elected president with Morry Esmiol, Bob Nelb, and Tom Shepard serving as the club's committee. Nelb was also elected manager of the Ski team.

Throughout the fall term many different trips were taken. Amongst the first was a sailing trip taken aboard a sixty-two-foot yawl. Two trips were made to Kennebunkport; and later the club went to Gloucester for a sail. The final excursion of the fall term was a week-end climbing trip up Mount Washington, with Saturday night being spent at Pinkham Notch. Following the custom of having at least one lecture a term, Carol Reed, noted ski expert, spoke to the Club on skiing.

During the spring term, a deep-sea fishing trip was run out of Plum Island with a week-end trout-fishing trip coming shortly after. Several trips to the beach were made where the club members sunned themselves and cooked their meals. Unfortunately because of the unusually balmy weather this spring, the annual skiing trip to Tuckerman's Ravine had to be called off.

Skiing, the main activity of the Club, was seriously curtailed this winter due to the unusual lack of snow. What little there was, was however, put to good use. There were no meets with outside schools this year, but there was much intra-squad competition that showed some very promising skiers. The Ski Shop, in the basement of Rockwell House, flourished when the snow did, but for the most of the winter it lay idle. Due to the sickness of the winter no lecture was held. When the spring came, the Outing Club was once more to be found at Prospect Hill. This time it was not skiing that they were doing, but clearing the old trails and making new ones for next year. Between the boys here and those working on the hockey rinks, Andover had quite some chain gang.

For the past successful season, thanks should be given to Mr. Sanborn and Doug Milne. They both worked hard to give those who wanted it the opportunity to get a taste of nature while at school, the opportunity to get away from the perpetual bustle of school life. But whether it was sailing or skiing or swimming, all thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Camera Club

Advisor

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

TWO changes took place in the organization of the Camera Club at the beginning of its ninth year: Mr. Benedict resigned as faculty advisor, being replaced by Mr. Minard, and a board of directors was substituted for the president, secretary, and treasurer of past years. Vaamonde, Outerbridge, Ordeman, Montgomery, Wessinger, and Wallace—the board members—have worked with Mr. Minard to make the Camera Club one of the most active of Andover clubs.

In general the policy of the board has been: 1) to provide darkroom facilities and helpful instruction for those members of the student body who wish to engage in photography solely as a hobby, and 2) at the same time, by forming a closer affiliation between the Camera Club and the Phillipian and Pot Pourri, to make the Camera Club the source of photographic material for these two publications.

During the fall term Mr. Minard at the meetings gave lectures on various subjects pertaining to photography, which were very beneficial to those boys who did not know very much about it but were interested and eager to learn. Most of the members' free time was spent preparing photographs for the school calendar, which the Club published just before Christmas vacation. Although this enterprise was not a financial success, it received the warm approbation of Dr. Fuess and many members of the faculty as well as of the student body.

Unfortunately the epidemic of influenza during the winter term halted the activities of the Club; it was requested by the medical department to go without meetings, and the use of Peabody House as temporary lodging place for the Rockwell House boys made it impossible to use the darkroom at all.

But then came the spring term with good health in the school and many opportunities for all-day camera trips to picturesque Gloucester and New Hampshire. Many excellent pictures were taken; and plans were made for an exhibition of photographs during commencement week, to consist mainly of school subjects for the benefit of the returning alumni.

Radio Club

President

R. P. NEILSON

Secretary-Treasurer E. R. WILKINSON, JR.

THIS year saw the revival of the Radio Club, which had been off the air for more than year. The revival was not an easy one, but its success has been gratifying. The Club is duly grateful to the Administration for the generous financial aid that was given.

At the beginning of the year a group of fellows got together and started to reform the organization. After last year's vandalism all they had to start with was the radio shack and an old transmitter which did not work. Through a sustained effort, the station is back on the air; and, although the equipment is limited, what there is is very good and is the beginning of a fine station. A small twenty-watt transmitter was built by the club so that it might get back on the air as soon as possible; and since the school was able to obtain one of the best receivers that is made, the club wanted to make use of it. With the kind help of a local radio man who found an interest in the club, what was left of the old transmitter was rebuilt so that the output of the station is now nearly one hundred watts. At this point it is the club's goal to build a transmitter equal to the receiver they have; and, when this is done, WISW will be the equal of any amateur station in New England.

It is reassuring to see the interest that has been shown throughout the year. At present there are only two licensed operators, one with a code license, the other with a phone. Operator Neilson, by working the small transmitter competently and by sending in the early morning when there is little interference, has reached some fifty other stations, including one in Porto Rico and one in Florida. Much time has been spent on code practice, and it is expected there will be 2 or 3 new operators when school opens next fall. This will mean that the club will be able to join the amateur network that is being organized for national defense, something it was unable to do this year because of the lack of licensed operators.

This year many good precedents have been set. All the equipment belongs to the club and not to members as in the past, and so the improvements of each year will be permanent. The equipment is fully insured, and everything points to a steady improvement in the years to come. A good foundation has been laid; it is for those of the future to build upon it well.

Latin Players

President	C. CRIMMINS
Secretary	J. STANFORD
Librarian	K. W. STEERE

WITH one year of successful production behind them, the members of the Latin Players of Phillips Academy started out in the fall of 1940 with high hopes for a profitable season. Cyril Crimmins was elected president, John Stanford secretary-treasurer, and Ken Steere, librarian. Aulularia or The Pot of Gold, by Plautus, was chosen for this year's play, and it was presented on the 14th of April in George Washington Hall. Cuthbertson, Dorn, Huser, Hall, De Rosa, Reinheimer, Kaufman, Reitzel, Lippman, Pantzer, Keyser, Steere, Haymond, Crimmins, Gostenhofer, Stanford, Parker, Warren, Feinberg, and Vreeland made up the cast.

The presentation of Aulularia, one of Plautus' funniest plays, entailed much work and was done entirely by the Players. The main part, that of the miser, was so long that five actors were needed to perform it. To the cast of twenty-two was supplemented a chorus singing lyrics composed by Dr. Westgate. The scenery was made under the direction of Mr. Woolsey by art students. Special credit should be given to Dave Carter, who painted the panorama. Fourteen faculty members assisted amongst whom were Dr. MacKendrick, who managed the costumes, and Mr. B. Kelley, who played an oboe obligato.

Aulularia was introduced by a masked Prologus (Ray Cuthbertson) who welcomed all the visitors, gave the names of the actors and a gist of the plot. Girls from Abbot and Rogers Hall swelled the audience to over 700, and there were representatives of the Harvard Latin Club who praised the show and predicted many years of success for the Players.

To stimulate even more interest in its organization, the Players offered a prize for an essay by a student in school comparing the Aulularia with any other play about a miser, and to date the competition has been strong.

A dinner for the players has been held each term. The small group which so quietly began with Dr. Westgate in the fall of nineteen hundred and thirty-eight have set a vigorous tradition for others to follow. Another new activity has made a place for itself.

Rifle Club

President	W. D. Ross
Vice-President	R. T. STEVENS, JR.
Treasurer	J. R. TREADWELL, II

AT the suggestion of Colonel Stimson, the Phillips Academy Rifle Club was organized last fall. During the course of the year over one hundred students became members and under the able instruction of "Monty" Peck were carefully drilled in the fundamentals of .22-calibre shooting until each member fully understood the importance of safety, sportsmanship, muscle co-ordination, and technical data. By the winter term visitors at the Cage on weekday evenings were impressed not only by the orderly fashion in which the shooting was carried out, but also by the regularity with which excellent targets were shot.

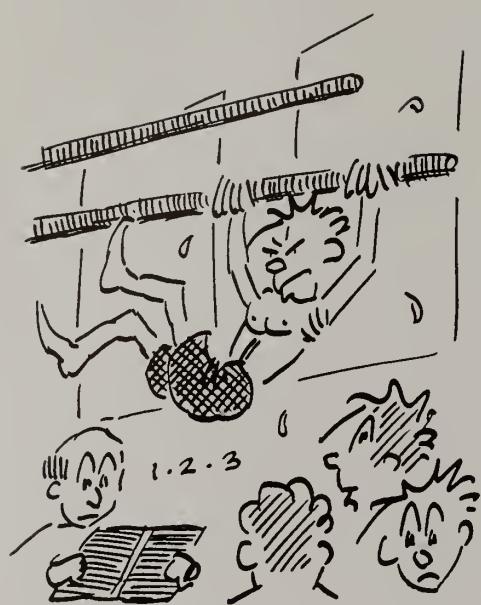

Early in the year elections were held at which Bill Ross was elected President of the Club, Bob Stevens, Vice-President, John Treadwell, Treasurer, and George Whaley and Howard Stewart, Advisors. Later on, after the steadiest shooters had been observed in action, Bill Ross, Bob Stevens, "Stu" Ayers, "Olly" Hallett, Bob Nelb, Roger Pile, Warren Cheek, and George Cooper were selected to fill the places of the Andover Rifle team. Outside meets could not be arranged this season, but numerous contests for next year are being planned.

As members of the Junior Division of the National Rifle Association, all the new riflemen eagerly competed for the various prizes. Several have finished shooting the 110 qualifying targets required of the prone and sitting positions, but only a very few have completed or even started on the difficult kneeling and standing positions. When the final goal is achieved the accomplished marksman will possess the following shiny bronze and silver medals: Promarksman, Marksman, Marksman First Class, Sharpshooter with its nine bars, and Expert. Besides the National Rifle Association competition, an inter-club meet was staged during the winter term. The Saxons finally triumphed with two perfect targets among their very high scores. In the spring term individual rivalry for a final award of a bronze medal to the man shooting the best prone, sitting, and kneeling targets was, when this article was written, still unended, and was appropriately bringing to a close a very successful first year.

COMPETITION and sportsmanship are the keynotes of athletics at Andover. They are graded from J.A. to the Varsity so a boy may play among his equals. Good facilities provide for almost every kind of sport. Exeter contests at the end of each season bring out the best in every team.

Undergraduate Secretary

D. O. GREEN

THE primary interest of the Advisory Board, comprised of the captains and managers of major sports plus the undergraduate secretary, whom it elects, is to promote a better understanding between the coaches and athletes in the various sports. It meets three or four times each term with Mr. Shepard in the gymnasium.

But besides this, the Board has more active duties to attend to. It is the Board that elects the P. A. Police, Open Door, and Cheerleaders. For the first, the Board must choose undergraduates of no mean physique, for these men must hold the student body in check. For the Open Door, boys must be chosen for their personality, as theirs is the duty to escort visiting teams. The cheerleaders are chosen for their popularity among the students. It takes pains and effort to choose the right men for these positions.

Each fall it is the Board's duty to hold the elections for the assistant managers. Each major sport has three and the minor sports have two positions to be filled, and the boys pick what position they want according to the number of votes they received. At the same time elections for the senior managements are held and appointments made.

The last important duty of the Board is to award letters and numerals. Recommendations are usually given to the Board by the coaches, but the Board may award an insignia to a boy if he has shown superior sportsmanship or co-operation, although he may have competed in few if any games.

Varsity Football

WITH well over one hundred and twenty-five men turning out in September for football, and with such stalwarts as Fisher, Keuffel, Beardsley, and Stilwell to build around, the Royal Blue's chances for a better-than-average season looked good. And after the first few days of practice had disclosed the ball-carrying abilities of Green, Dwyer, and Furse, the new team looked forward to the first game with confidence.

The opener with Nichols Junior College started Andover off on a season of injuries. Although outplayed, Nichols came through with the touchdowns to win, 12-7. The next Saturday the team showed its power to tie the Yale Frosh, 7-7, after holding the Cubs on the six-inch line for four downs. Threatening through the air in the second half, Yale revealed a seriously weak Andover pass defense on which the coaches started a drill that lasted until the Exeter game. Taking to the air itself against Bowdoin, the Blue scored its first touchdown on the same quarterback "sneak" pass that had scored against

Exeter the year before. However, the team could not seem to keep up any sustained drive for the rest of the game, and that touchdown was the only one. Although playing a far more spirited game against a team that was its superior in both weight and power, the team was well beaten by Harvard, 20-0. Until he was hurt in the last quarter, Captain Jack Fisher made practically every tackle, giving a slight indication of what he was going to do in the Exeter game. The next week saw Don Green and Tommy Dwyer recovered from their injuries and in the lineup for the first time. Scoring beautifully, 40 yards through the air on a new "Sarota" pass from Vose to Shaw, and on a swift end sweep by Don Green, Andover trounced the Northeastern Freshmen, 14-0. As usual Jack Fisher sparked a heavy line. In the Tufts game a live, rejuvenated Andover eleven was bogged down by a cold, blinding rain. Early in the first quarter Don Green made a brilliant forty-yard sweep of the Tufts left end to put the ball in a scoring position. A few plays later he was again called on to carry the slippery ball, and he managed to swim once more around the Tufts right end to score the only touchdown of the game.

On November 9, a powerful, once-defeated Exeter team came down to Brothers Field, a distinct favorite. The Royal Blue, playing for only the second time as a unit because of the injuries that had hampered it throughout the season, played a spirited game, but Exeter was just too good. Led by Captain Kirmil and Callagy, the Red and Gray scored once in the first half and twice in the second. Late in the last quarter Captain Fisher broke through the Exeter line to block a punt, but it rolled out of the end zone and Andover got only a safety making the final score, 20-2. Jack Fisher was the mainstay of the line in this, his last game, as he had been in most of the previous ones. The hand that the stands gave him as he left the field for the last time late in the final quarter was a fine tribute to one of Andover's great football captains.

Kenneth William Keuffel, a two-year veteran and a steady player in the backfield throughout the season, was elected captain for 1941, and Philip Battell Stewart, 2nd was chosen to succeed William Bacon as manager.

FINISHING a successful but not outstanding season, the Junior Varsity football eleven conquered Exeter, 13-12, in the second annual game.

With the ball in its hands for the first time after Andover had kicked off to Exeter, the team marched down a muddy field. Hudner took the ball across for the first score of the game, but the attempt for the extra point failed. In the next quarter, the ball was kept well down in the Red and Gray territory. Andover's only other tally came when Dick Sheridan scored through tackle.

The second half opened and saw the Exeter team much improved. Soon after it opened, Exeter scored after they recovered a fumble on Andover's 35. It was not till almost the end of the game that Exeter was able to score again. The try for extra point was smeared by Overall and Duden and the game ended Andover 13, Exeter 12.

Throughout the season, Nick Gal and Sid Overall in the line, Dick Duden and Bob Flato in the backfield, were the outstanding players of the team.

L. A. BLOOD

WITH no returning lettermen available for this fall's Cross-Country Team, a turnout of thirty-five men, mostly lowerclassmen, went a long way to calm Coach Hallowell's worries. Acting according to doctor's orders, Captain Larry Blood, the only returning letterman, did not run. Interest and conscientiousness proved to be the only qualities needed to form, from the inexperienced material, a team which was able to place fourth in an Interscholastic Cross-Country Meet, in which seven other New England preparatory schools were represented.

Over a period of five weeks, Coach Hallowell worked with his candidates building them up gradually for the new two and six-tenths mile course. Midway in the season, the squad was divided into two parts. The first group comprised the varsity squad, while the second, composed of younger candidates, formed the Hill and Dalers.

In the First Annual Interscholastic Cross-Country Meet, held at Andover, St. John's, which had previously beaten Andover in a practice meet, led the field with a score of 41, followed by Mt. Hermon with 46 points. The other scores were: Hartland, 82; Andover, 113; Cushing, 123; Bridgton, 150; and Moses Brown, 186. All the schools present expressed great enthusiasm, and it is expected that the meet will become an annual affair.

Of a field of fifty runners, Jim Reilly finished in 14 minutes, 4 seconds, after having come in first in previous time trials. Nichols, Worthen, Hackett, and Jack White helped gather valuable points for us.

At the annual banquet, Jim Reilly was elected captain of next year's team. It seems evident that with the return of Nichols, Hackett, Worthen, and White, a successful season will be in store for Coach Hallowell's 1941 Cross-Country Team.

FINISHING the year with a record of four victories, two ties and two defeats, the varsity soccer team's season was characterized after the first three games by a disappointing inability to score. During the initial sessions Coach Jim Ryley faced the problem of building a winning team with only ten returning lettermen. Captain Don Boynton, Poppy Bush, and Jim Dicken, all veterans, formed the backbone of the team. Promising new men were Cunningham, McKinley, and Asbury while the clubs supplied Nicholson, Harrison, Maclarens, Hatheway and King.

In the first few games the team functioned well, but sickness soon deprived it of two of its keymen: halfback, Bob Nelb and center, Poppy Bush. The former was out for the rest of the season; the latter until the Exeter game.

Coming up to the final encounter with only one defeat, by a strong Yale Freshman squad, the team was about on even terms with its New Hampshire rivals. Unfortunately for players and spectators alike, the day of the game was rainy, and the field a quagmire. During most of the game possession of the ball seesawed back and forth between the two teams until an Exeter forward leaped high in the air to score the game's only goal on a fine head shot.

Andover's main strength during the season lay in her defense. Don Boynton, Jerry Zeigler and John Cunningham, backed by goalie Jim Dicken, formed a combination which was seldom scored upon. Other mainstays of the defense were Jack Miller, Jack Carr and Dave Peet. Scoring punch was supplied by Don Boynton, George Ravenelle, Poppy Bush and George Winburn. Co-operating with these men in setting up many plays were Paul Davidson, Laudie Sargent and Tuck Asbury.

High tribute must be paid to Captain Boynton, who led the whole team by his inspired play throughout the season. Jim Ryley's usual skillful coaching and Bill Macdonald's excellent management of the team also deserve a full share of credit. At the team banquet following the Exeter game Center Poppy Bush was chosen captain, and George Warren was elected manager.

Basketball

Jim Dicken, Captain

WITH over one hundred candidates reporting for the first practice this year, basketball started out promisingly. Before long Coach DiClementi had selected a tall, well-balanced squad.

The first two games were easy wins for the Blue. Newcomer Dick Duden was high-scorer in both. His all-around excellent play was well supplemented by that of Captain Jim Dicken, Bob Furman, Vin McKernin, and Andy Chafey.

The first Andover setback came in the game with Dean. Vinny McKernin's total of 13 points was the only bright spot of the afternoon. The final score favored Dean, 43-33.

By trouncing Bridgton, the team avenged the defeat of the week before. Duden amassed the amazing total of 21 points, while Chafey turned in a fine job both offensively and defensively. From the opening whistle the team played hard, aggressive basketball.

Northeastern and Tufts were easily defeated by the Blue. Governor Dummer cancelled its game, leaving Yale as the next adversary. This was a thrilling game all the way, but Andover could never quite erase the Yale lead. The fray ended with Andover on the short side of a 45-42 verdict.

Despite its recent let-down, Jim Dicken stepped onto the Exeter court leading a favored Blue quintet. Exeter was at the top of its game, and Andover did not live up to pre-game predictions. The offense failed to click and the defense was ragged. Exeter's man to man limited Duden, McKernin, and Furman to a total of 10 points. Foul throws were the deciding factor, however, with Exeter sinking 13 to Andover's 3. Jim Dicken played the outstanding game of the day. From his guard post he dropped in thirteen points, while his defensive work also excelled.

All in all the season was not a bad one. Andover's late-season failures were probably due to lack of outside games. Coach DiClementi deserves a great deal of credit for his tireless work with the squad. Jim Dicken was a spirited, sterling leader, and playing manager Poppy Bush did a good job. At the team banquet, Bob Furman was elected captain, and Ralph Carter, manager.

ONE of the best Hockey teams Andover has seen in several years started its season under Bill Howe at the Northwood School Tournament at Lake Placid. There, Andover accounted for itself by winning two out of three. Helping to account for this was Manager Doug Milne, ably filling the position in the cage.

Once back at school again, things went only fairly. The team was affected by the sickness that was prevalent, and it was not till the Exeter game that the Blue squad was a unit. Even then George Warren was still out because of a broken collarbone.

The game with the Red and Gray started off fast and furiously, but there was no scoring till the second period. Exeter scored first that day on a highly disputed rebound shot. Gib Kittredge led the attack for the Blue early in the third quarter and finally scored. There was some fast exchanging, and then from behind the blue line, Orrin Wood sent a long one into the nets to make the score 2-1 for the Blue. Exeter was unable to score for the rest of the game. It was Andover's third win in fifteen years of competition.

Throughout the season Captain Bill Howe did a good job both in playing and in furnishing the leadership that was necessary to carry the team on to victory. Manager Doug Milne, too, did his part, and we can not forget how well he did at Placid. Punchy Pyle was a steady man in the forward line and could always be counted on to fight hard and score. Orrin Wood was the outstanding defenseman and often scored from way back, and he was invaluable in breaking up the attacks of the other teams. Hank Gardner played a marvelous game in the goal, both against Exeter as well as in all the other games. Bill Bacon was another one of the forwards that did much in every game to help win it. Don Boynton as always was one of the outstanding men, and he was always one to fight to the bitter end. Too, credit should be given to Coach Dick Knight, who did all he could to build that winning team.

At the annual dinner, Captain Bill Howe was re-elected to lead the Hockey squad, and Al Sarnoff was elected to replace Doug Milne.

Swimming

Fred Crane, Captain

BEGINNING the year with bright prospects, Coach Dake's dreams came true. The Blue swimming team was undefeated, untied. The new squad was built around several returning lettermen and some boys, new to the hill. Carrington swam the 200-yard freestyle with amazing speed, twice breaking the record. Captain Crane, both with his cheerfulness, good swimming, and leadership, contributed much both to the team's spirit and success. Fallon, Sheft, Naugle, and Corse, all of whom had seen action in past years, swam well and regularly for the Blue, while Cuthbertson and Nicholson sprang gracefully from diving board to water. Hallett, Palitz, and Crawford, new men to the hill, contributed much toward the undefeated season.

So with an undefeated record to defend, Captain Crane led the mermen to the pool in high hopes of beating the Exeter redfish. Naugle and Corse took second and third respectively in the fifty-yard freestyle, while Sheft and Crawford did the same in the breaststroke to make the score 10-8 for the Red and Gray. The next race saw Carrington churn up the twohundred-yard freestyle in 2.09.2 to break both his own and the meet record. Sheridan, not far behind, came in third. The second record of the day was snapped as Hallett finished in 1.06.4 after doing the backstroke. Captain Crane came hot on the tail of an Exonian to finish second in the hundred-yard freestyle. In the dive, Nicholson and Cuthbertson were first and second with the same number of points but Nicholson was awarded first because he had obtained more points in the compulsory dives. At this point Exeter's only chance of winning was to take both the relays; but this was not to be. Andover took the medley relay thereby cinching the meet. But the Andover spirit did not wane. A strong relay team went on to win the two-hundred-yard relay and to set a new meet record, the third one of the day, as the undefeated swimming team conquered Exeter, 45-21.

Great credit should be given to Coach Dake, Captain Crane, and Manager Livingston for leading the team through a very successful season. John Corse and Charles Bissell were chosen captain and manager, respectively, of next year's promising team.

FINDING it necessary to rely on inexperienced material, Coach Cy Carlson this year moulded around but three returning lettermen a team which, though it failed to win a match, fought valiantly.

Sickness caused the cancellation of the first few meets with the result that there was only intra-squad work. All during the season there were many changes in the lineup, the team being picked each week from the winners of trials. Tom Cochran, Al McNulty, and Captain Slack were the ones who could be counted on to come through in the pinches. Too, Captain Slack did a fine job of leading his teammates through a hard and trying season.

Though rated as the underdog, the team was well-trimmed and ready for the annual grapple with the New Hampshire rivals. In the 121-lb. class, Guy Howe fought his opponent to a standstill, but due to his lack of points the decision was lost. McNulty next won a decision, after giving a beautiful exhibition of hard wrestling, to tie the score. Captain Slack was next for the Blue, but he was defeated by a powerful opponent in a close decision. In the 145-lb. class, Tom Cochran, with his usual quickness and alertness, gained a decision to again even the score. But from here on Andover was fighting a losing battle. Thiras, wrestling the best he ever had, lost a decision. Jerry Ziegler wrestled well. At the end he had the same number of points as his opponent, but he lost because the other man had remained on top for the greater part of the match. Drake and Hellebush were both defeated, but each gave a good account of himself before he was pinned.

Frank Slack, Captain

Though the season was far from successful in the way of scores, it must be remembered that valuable experience was gotten for next year. At the annual dinner, Al McNulty was elected captain of the team for next year. His record of four wins in five starts will be something for next year's team to work for. Thanks should be given to Coach Carlson for his patient effort with the squad.

THE Fencing team, led by Captain George Winburn and Manager Reiche, opened the season with high hopes, for there were four returning lettermen.

George Winburn, Captain

But after the crushing defeat Brown '44 handed the Blue in the first meet, it was easily seen that much work was needed to perfect the team. Under the coaching of Mr. Barss, everyone did improve, and in each meet the margin of defeat grew slimmer. Encouraged by a decisive victory over the Dartmouth yearlings, the foilsmen went on to defeat Exeter, 6-3, for a thrilling climax to the season of nineteen forty-one.

The star of the team this year was George Lewis, captain-elect, who won all three of his matches against Exeter. Wolf and Jackson also did nobly. Captain Winburn led the sabre men, Stewart, Bassett, and Biglow, through the season, but unfortunately they did not share in the vanquishing of the Red and Gray. In the épée, it was Reiche, Gardner, and Carter who saw the most action. Thanks are gratefully given to Mr. Barss, who spent time and effort with the squad to make it what it was.

WITH favorable snow conditions, the Skiing team started off the year practicing the fundamentals and soon reached a high degree of proficiency. Unfortunately, the snow did not last long enough for interscholastic competition.

Nevertheless, several time trials were held, and there was much intra-squad competition. Co-Captain Cochran, a class A skier, took up jumping this year, and he and Co-Captain Merrill spent many afternoons trying to outdo one another. Esmiol, McChesney, and Manager Nelb were the outstanding downhill runners, and all in all, the team was potentially one of the best we have had in many years, long-lasting snow being the only thing it lacked.

Despite the lack of outside competition, the year was by no means a complete waste. Not only did the skiers have time to receive much valuable instruction from Mr. Sanborn, but also several trails were cut, and the slope on Prospect Hill was widened to facilitate the skiing of all.

Varsity Track

SPARKED by the brilliant performances of Co-Captains Harvey Kelsey and Jack Fisher, the Winter Track team went through an undefeated season. Needless to say a great part of the credit goes to Messrs. Shepard, Boyle, and Flanagan for their expert coaching.

The season proved valuable in shaping up a powerful aggregation for the Spring season. Co-Captain Kelsey was a consistent breadwinner in the 40-yard dash and in the 300. The pole vault provided Andover with a sensational new star, Dick Sheridan, who was ably seconded by Paul Davidson and Ralph Sulis. In the longer running events, Larry Blood did well in the 1000 along with Art Upton and Jim Reilly, while the 600 was competently handled by the Calder twins. As usual, Mr. Flanagan provided P.A. with a deadly combination in the weights of brothers Jack and Willo Fisher, Chuck Burns, and Johnny Cochran. The broad jump board was well pounded by Curt von Wedel, Scotty Royce, and Stu Grover, while Dan Hanna, Stan Howard, Chan Hall, and Ed Pyle tended to the high jump in good style.

In the spring the squad migrated from the cage and only once tasted defeat, and that was at the hands of the invincible Yale yearlings. The weather was perfect for early work out of doors, and it was in the wide open spaces that the two supercharged Captains really hit their strides. Midway in the season, in the triangular meet with the Harvard and Dartmouth cubs, Harvey Kelsey broke the great Charlie Borah's record in the 100-yard dash by traveling over the century in 9 and 5-10 seconds. In the 220 the bolt from the Royal Blue broke the record of 1900 by 1-10 of a second. Over on the other side of the field in the same meet, Jack Fisher broke the 12-pound hammer throw record with a toss of 195 feet, 2 inches.

Don Green was a valuable point-getter in the shorter running events as were Willo Fisher and Dick Read in the hammer. In the 120 high hurdles Tom Smith and Chan Hall consistently did well, while in the 220 lows Walt Cahners and Bruce Throckmorton garnered points. The 440 found George McMahon, a find, pressing hard on the heels of Ben Calder. Brother Bruce was shifted to the 880 where he helped Larry Blood gather points. Art Upton and Nick Nichols took care of the mile run for old P.A. The late arrival of Jim Reilly brought a smile to Coach Boyle's face in regard to the coming Exeter meet. In the field events, the same men competed as had in the cage during the winter.

Despite the bad break provided by the weather, the spring meet with Exeter was very successful. The mile was swept by Jim Reilly, Art Upton, and Jim Trimble; and, while the weather kept the Captains from breaking any records, they scored wins in all events entered. Larry Blood scored another first for the Blue in the 880, and Dick Sheridan cleared 12 feet in the pole vault.

Jim Reilly and Dick Sheridan were elected to pilot the team next year, and Phil Reed was chosen to replace Tony Lynch as manager. Co-Captains Harvey Kelsey and Jack Fisher will ever remain two of the greatest stars Andover can boast.

Varsity Baseball

CONTINUING his career as Andover's baseball coach, Mr. Follansbee started the season with fairly grim prospects. His younger brother ably filled the vacancy left by Mr. Allen when he went into the Army. The big problem at the start of the season was that only two of last year's lettermen returned, plus two members of the squad. The situation was relieved, however, by the appearance of seven former J.V. players and several promising new candidates.

The pitching staff was greatly aided by two of these J.V. men, Elly Vose and Bill Howe. A newcomer, Tom Dwyer, also helped out as did Sy Brockway, a member of last year's squad. Punchy Pyle soon showed his ability as a catcher, and Poppy Bush, who was absent last year because of illness, made sure of the position at first. There was no need to worry about the shortstop post which Don Boynton so ably took care of. Second and third were, however, not so easily filled. Doug Sturges, a Junior, and Tuck Asbury, a Lower, were respectively selected for these berths. After some shifting around, the outfield was well filled by Fred Hudson, Art Coleman, and Dick Duden.

Although the team was chosen, it took quite some time to build it up with self-confidence and experience. The majority of the fellows had never before encountered such strong and experienced players as the teams the Varsity played consisted of. Experience was, nevertheless, gained at the expense of defeat. The losses to Thayer and Huntington were very close, each game being lost by only one run. At Providence the team lost to the Brown Cubs; and at New Haven, a week later, they bowed to a strong Yale team. Elly Vose pitched both these games and displayed good control.

After another week's practice, the team was out for a victory against Deerfield, and they were not disappointed. The next game, against the Tufts Freshmen, was won by a large margin. At this point a marked change could be noted in the team which had started its season but three weeks before. The hitting of the team had improved, and defensive playing was much better. The steady coaching of the Follansbees was beginning to show signs of success. The few games following the victories were against stronger teams, and resulted in two losses and a tie. All these games added to the skill of the team, and perhaps the Exeter game on May 31 will illustrate more fully what has been achieved.

In mentioning individual players, it is certainly just to speak of the development of Tuck Asbury and Doug Sturges. These two lowerclassmen were certainly a godsend to the team. They both proved consistent players, and the former added immeasurably to the team's hitting power. Dick Duden was another heavy hitting Lower. Poppy Bush, Punchy Pyle, and Art Coleman were tremendous assets with their desire to do well and show plenty of fight. To the members of the squad that did not see steady action, credit should be given for their fine spirit in practice and when they played.

It is hardly necessary to mention how Captain Don Boynton's excellent spirit and play led the team. He was a fine leader and team-mate. The coaches, Messrs. George and Harper Follansbee, as well as Manager Ernie Stockwell deserve a great deal of credit for the work they put in throughout the season.

Don Boynton, Captain

J. V. Baseball

THIS year, due to the rigorous cut imposed by Coach Melendy, the J.V. Baseball squad was the smallest it has ever been. There were only 15 players to begin with, and one was forced to quit because of pneumonia, another because of a broken finger, and still a third because of studies. But around these 12 men Mr. Melendy fashioned a team that made up in good hitting what it lacked in fielding. Macintyre, Farrington, Strong, and Wright were the strongest of the batsmen. Probably the most decisive win of the season came over the Boston Boys' Club. Andover was on the top side of a 8-5 victory with 14 hits to their credit. The pitching staff, on the whole, was weak with Traylor, Barker, and Jules being the mainstays.

As always, the main concern of the J.V. Team was to build up material from the lower classes for the Varsities of future years. Farrington, only a Junior, has shown a great deal of promise and will probably be a member of next year's varsity. To Mr. Melendy, the whole school owes thanks for the valuable service he performs as the J. V. Coach.

Polo

Caldwell, Watson, Taber, Captain; Sommer, Wickwire

THIS year's polo team, enhanced by only two returning men, player-Manager Caldwell and Captain Phil Taber, was at first weak on teamwork and coordination; but, as the season progressed, the new men, Pete Sommer, Jim Watson, "Ace" Wickwire, and "Lew" Sorrentino, aided immensely by Lyle Phillips' able coaching, ironed their weaknesses down to a minimum until they became an effective unit.

Four practice scrimmages with the Myopia Country Club Team gave the squad its best experience in preparation for the season's three games, one each with Dedham, Harvard Varsity, and Avon Old Farms. Though Andover lost its doubleheader with Dedham and Harvard by the scores of 7-3 and 9-2, respectively, the games were characterized by good hitting and fine spirit on the part of all our players. Our lanky Captain, Phil Taber, in spite of these offsets, sought a victory with the rival Avon team, but their superiority was too decisive and they won, 13-14. Because most of our team is returning in the fall, Andover is sure to produce an A-1 squad for next year's contests.

Phil Taber, Captain

Golf

Fuller Marshall, Captain

COACHES Bob Sides and Bill Brown were greatly hampered in building up a team this year by the unfortunate lack of experience among the members of the squad, due to the fact that there were only two lettermen returning from last year's team—Fuller Marshall and Clayt Marvin. Nevertheless, with this experienced core around which to form a well-rounded team, the coaches promoted a few men from last year's second team to this year's varsity and discovered some promising new talent. The team as it finally emerged was lacking in only one quality—experience; it was principally due to this inexperience that a better record was not scored.

Last year Fuller Marshall, although only a Junior, showed his ability at golf to such excellent advantage that he was made a member of the team. This year, although only a Lower-Middler, he was elected captain. Throughout the season this boy has played a steady game, shooting consistently in the low figures. His brother Junie, also a Lower, has likewise managed to keep his score down, although he is somewhat more erratic than his brother. Hank Gardner could be relied on to turn in a low score, as could Clayt Marvin, Will Mark, and Charlie Ayers. Everyone on the team was good, but few had enough experience to bring them through to consistent wins.

One of the features of the season was a series of three Round Robins between Andover, Exeter, and Governor Dummer. Andover nosed out Exeter in the first two of this series of three matches, but Exeter won the third by such a wide margin that she won the series, Andover placing second, and Governor Dummer third.

On April twenty-first the P.A. student golfers met the P.A. faculty golfers in the annual student-faculty golf match. This year it turned out to be a very evenly matched contest, the faculty, led by Dr. Fuess and Mr. Poynter, being the losers by the close score of 8-7.

As this article goes to press, the Andover-Exeter match has not yet been played. The odds seem to be against the Andover squad, although, as the coaches will tell you, there's no telling how an Andover-Exeter contest will come out. One encouraging fact is that three days before the Exeter match Captain Marshall shot a 76 in a practice round.

Regardless of the outcome of this meet, Andover's prospects for next year seem very bright indeed. Since only one member of this year's squad will be lost by graduation, next year's team should consist almost entirely of boys with at least one year of experience behind them. Andover's two fine coaches, with such material to work with, should produce an exceptionally team.

BECAUSE twenty-three of last season's twenty-five lettermen were lost by graduation last year, the Lacrosse team started out with a definite handicap. The early part of the season saw the team disorganized and confused, fighting against overwhelming odds, and it was not till the team was completely reorganized with Ted Heckel in the goal that Andover won a game. Throughout the season Captain Jay Naugle sparked the defense as well as the rest of the team. Biglow was another ray of light in the dark, working hard the whole year. It was he who undertook the job of trying to get some students to go up to Exeter with the team. Al Cook and Dan Boone deserve credit for their share in trying to help the team, as to all the members of the squad.

When the Andover team came up against Exeter, it had won only one game and was rated not even a fair chance of winning. Although Andover played hard and fast, the Blue was beaten by a better coached and better coordinated Exeter team. Each individual of the Andover team fought for all that he was worth, but the team's one big lack was what Exeter excelled in—teamwork. But despite the decisive defeat the team fought long and hard as Ted Heckel stopped nineteen attempts at the goal.

In spite of the disastrous season, the team was far better at the end than it was at the beginning. The progress the group made was shown in better stick-handling, more speed, and a more cooperative team as a whole. There is certainly every reason to be sure that Andover will have a good record in Lacrosse, next year, as the team will lose only five men and as there will be at least sixteen returning lettermen.

Captain Jay Naugle deserves a great deal of credit for his superb leadership of the team as does Mr. Ben Martin of the Boston Lacrosse Club, who so ably aided Mr. James in coaching.

Tennis

Hobe Early, Captain

STARTING the season with only two returning lettermen, Captain Hobe Early and Frank Strout, and weakened irreparably by the graduation of Al Everts, tennis prospects looked extremely gloomy. Yet up from last year's second team came four much-improved players, Carl Badger, Joe Vaamonde, Phil Drake, and Ray Peck. From California appeared Frank Hall, a very capable newcomer, and one who was destined to fill one of the high positions on the team. With these five men to build around the nucleus of the two lettermen, the tennis team envisioned a considerably brighter future than it had previously expected.

With the opening of the spring term, warm and clear weather greeted the squad. Unlike last year, when the players had to practice with a Stow Stroke Developer or in the Cage, the courts dried out quickly and were ready for immediate use. The first cuts, reducing the squad considerably, were made, and Coach Kelley soon fashioned from this smaller group a well-knit and skillful first team backed up by a second outfit that was only slightly less proficient.

Avoiding diseases and ailments of all kinds, such as beset last year's squad, and with every one of its members playing fine tennis, the team soon began to pile up an impressive list of victories. Trips were made to Harvard and St. Paul's, while the four top men, Early, Hall, Badger, and Strout, traveled to Boston to compete in the tryouts for the National School Tournament.

Now, as this edition goes to press, the team is coming up to the Exeter match with a record of six wins, as against only two losses. It has been improving throughout the season, and all the players, especially Captain Early, are showing top form. The Exonians are slightly favored, largely because of their captain, Blair Hawley, but, with the hearty backing of the school, a victory is well within Andover's grasp. We sincerely hope that the team does win and join with the entire school in wishing them all the luck possible in their forthcoming encounter.

Life goes to an Andover-Exeter Football Game

TO Andover, last fall, came Exeter, en masse, for the annual football game. Since the start of the nineteenth century, the rivalry that is today has been flourishing. Spirits were high on both sides of the beautiful old vista of Phillips Academy as the schools lined up opposite each other. There was the usual exchange of cheers, but in those cheers one could hear not merely a fighting school spirit but the spirit of American youth. Meanwhile, Headmasters Perry, of Exeter, and Fuess, of Andover, had met at the latter's house to talk things over about the two schools before the game began.

The cheers were followed by a march through the Elm Arch to Brothers Field, where Captain Fisher (see cover), son of the better known Harvard Coach, Bob Fisher, and Exeter's Kirmil led their teams to the fray. Though it was apparent from the start that it was going to be Exeter's day, the spirit of the boys in blue never faltered. While both bands were forced to be content with playing from the stands during most of the game, during the half they tried to show each other up by forming letters and executing complicated marching orders. The game, one that any college would have been proud of, was well fought by both sides, and neither team had any regrets when the final whistle blew. Exeter won twenty to two, Andover's only score coming late in the final period when Captain Fisher blocked an Exeter kick and the ball went behind the end zone.

Under the directions of the cheerleaders, Andover marches up the old Elm Arch to the strains of March, March on down the Field.

The Exeter lion was not the cause of the Blue's defeat, though it chased and finally caught a Little Boy Blue, horn and all.

There was a big crowd there to see the game. Parents and alumni alike came Exeter rushes through the gates expectant and hopeful. The student police had a hard time keeping the high spirit under control.

A last-minute word by coaches Sorota and Flanagan sends the Andover team hopefully on its way against a powerful New Hampshire threat.

from far and near to see the annual football classic. The two stands were quite contrasting, the Andover one being predominately blue while Exeter's was almost entirely red. There was even an Exeter lion that chased and finally caught a little blue boy.

Exeter marched triumphantly from the field and, while passing Day Hall, eyed with something more than envy the "Andovah" banner hung there. Meantime, Andover having left the field in a straggly manner, roamed about the campus. One Andover lad was overheard saying, "I wish we had won, but it was a great game anyway. I guess Exeter's a pretty fine place after all."

A Redman tries to shake off some Blue trouble, but to no avail. He was downed shortly after, having done the best he could.

Nothing very unusual, as one might think from the expression of the ref. An Exeter man gets hit as he crosses his own twenty.

During a time-out the Andover band livens things up by its rendition of the Woodpecker Song.

A bit regretful, perhaps, but then there is nothing to do about it when someone cuts in.

It was too soon that the dance ended, and those that did not go home went to the regular Saturday night movies. And so with the end of the Saturday night entertainment came the end of a not too successful yet thoroughly enjoyable day.

THE LIGHT THAT MUST NOT GO OUT!

From hour to hour, on wavelengths from far and near, Americans owning 50,000,000 radio receiving sets hear the news of war overseas. The broadcasts tell of raiders in foreign skies; they tell of terrific explosions and flames seen more than 100 miles away. Commentators tell of blackouts—15 hours of blackness at a stretch in London... In the United States, radio is the voice of national defense.

A light in the darkness that enshrouds the world is the truth of an uncensored radio... broadcasts from American aerial towers that stand as sentinels of freedom. The light of truth in American radio is not shaded or hooded... it is the glow of hope for free men everywhere.

For many months now, the National Broadcasting Company, through modern improvements in equipment and increased power in short-wave transmitters, has helped to make certain that the slit of light on radios in homes throughout the Americas will burn as one great beacon of freedom... for these broadcasts spread into the far corners of the darkened world.

By short waves, NBC is flashing the truth, as it is received from its American observers in foreign lands, and from the press associations.

Cordial, two-way relations have been established through exchange of programs between North and South America... and NBC is happy that it has the opportunity and facilities to contribute to the cultivation of all-American friendships... every one of NBC's programs are sent free of charge to Latin America, that they may be rebroadcast for the pleasure of our southern neighbors.

That there shall be no blackout in the light of American radio... that there be no blinding of listeners, no hooding or curtaining of the truth, is the aim of NBC... Radio's light of truth must never fail.

ONCE again a senior class has played out its part in the history of Andover.

The Andover Shop expresses appreciation for the part it has been privileged to play in the success of the Class of 1941 through providing correct dress in keeping with their high standards.

We sincerely hope that we may have the opportunity for continued service through LANGROCK shops at Yale, Brown, Penn., Williams, Princeton, or New York City.
